Both Sides Fire Volleys on the Political Scene

By LARRY OSIUS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Candidates on both sides of the political fence have fired volleys on such issues as nuclear weapons control, taxes and civil rights in the first major skirmishing of the 1964 presidential election campaign.

President Johnson, while not openly acknowledging it as a campaign speech, took sharp issue with Republican nominee Barry Goldwater on the question of nuclear weapons control in a Labor Day address in Detroit Monday.

In nearby Indiana and Ohio the vice presidential nominees, Republican Rep. William E. Miller of New York and Democratic Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota touched, respectively, on taxes and civil rights among other things.

Goldwater didn't mix into the scrap but from the Arizona senator's camp came word that he will outline tonight a plan for reducing taxes by 5 per cent a year for five years if he is elected in November.

Goldwater, who rested in Phoenix Monday, opens his first major campaign swing in San Diego, Calif., today. Johnson, Humphrey and Miller all returned to Washington.

Johnson spoke at an AFL-CIO-sponsored Labor Day rally in Detroit's Cadillac Square, the place where Democratic candidates have begun their campaigns since 1948.

The President didn't once use the word Democrat. Much of his speech dwelt on such topics as national unity, peace and prosperity. But there was little doubt he was aiming shafts at Goldwater when he moved to the subject of nuclear weapons control.

Goldwater, in an Aug. 25 speech, had suggested a way be found to provide the North Atlantic Treaty Organization with small, tactical nuclear weapons for battlefield use, weapons which he said "may truly be called conventional weapons."

"Make no mistake," Johnson said Monday. "There is no such thing as a conventional nuclear weapon."

He said the judgment to use nuclear weapons is "a political decision of the highest order" and added: "No president of the United States can divest himself of the responsibility for such a decision."

Miller, campaigning in Indiana, told a Labor Day audience in South Bend that working men would benefit from a Republican administration through tax cuts and protection of jobs from foreign competition.

"Our administration will refuse to toy with dangerous programs in the field of tariffs and immigration which could well destroy our labor market," Miller said.

He said the Johnson administration is advocating immigration policies that would "open the floodgates" for foreign people seeking jobs in the United States.

Labor Day Death Toll Passes 500

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Deaths on the nation's highways and streets over the long Labor Day weekend rose past the 500 mark today, but the National Safety Council said the number of fatalities would not approach record figures.

At the latest count, traffic fatalities across the United States numbered 523. Eighteen persons were killed in boating accidents and 57 others drowned.

Howard Pyle, president of the safety council, credited cautious driving on the part of homebound motorists with keeping the death toll behind last year's record of 557 lives.

Throughout most of the 78-hour weekend, the number of deaths had kept pace with the record setting 1963 figures.

Early Sunday evening the number of deaths reached 450 and safety council spokesmen expressed fear that a new record would be set as motorists clogged highways on the way home.

At the latest count, traffic accidents across the United States had taken 510 lives. In addition, 18 persons were killed in boating accidents and 56 others had drowned.

The safety council estimated before the holiday began that 490 to 550 persons would be killed during the weekend. An Associated Press survey, made for comparative purposes over a 78-hour nonholiday weekend from 6 p.m. Friday, Aug. 21, to midnight Monday, Aug. 24, showed 456 persons dead in traffic accidents, 4 in boating accidents and 54 by drowning.

The safety council's Labor Day weekend traffic count began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight Monday (local times).

One of Life's Little But Big Ordeals Is Returning to the Job After a 3-Day Holiday

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One of life's little ordeals is returning to the job after a three-day holiday weekend.

Some, of course, can't stand to be away from the usual routine of office or plant life. They return to it with glad sighs, as an old horse to its stall.

Others of us, on the other hand, need a little indoctrination upon having to come back to the chafing of the daily rut. Freedom has made us a bit wild and coltish.

We need again to be reconciled to the thought that, while variety may be the spice of life, it is also good for our immortal souls to be back once more plodding through the old salt mine.

In that helpful spirit we have assembled some remarks by the sages of the ages on why work is good for what ails us:

"Where our work is, there let our joy be." — Tertullian.

"As a cure for worrying, work is better than whisky." — Thomas A. Edison.

"Let us work without protest; it is the only way to make life endurable." — Voltaire.

Goldwater Raps Domestic, Foreign Policy, LBJ Takes Issue on Nuclear Weapons

By WALTER R. MEARS

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater launched his first presidential campaign tour today by charging that Johnson administration "in effect promises to regiment our people at home and has demonstrated that it will wreck our alliances abroad."

A 25 per cent, five-year tax cut proposal in his pocket, the Republican presidential nominee set out from Phoenix on a campaign journey that will cover 11 cities in seven states.

San Diego is his first stop. In a speech at Los Angeles tonight, Goldwater will spell out the details of his tax cut program—already sketched by a top aide.

The Arizona senator envisions a five per cent annual reduction in both individual and corporate income taxes, linked with a drive to reduce or at least hold the line on federal expenditures.

He believes it can be financed out of increased tax revenues produced by economic expansion—and that at the same time, a Republican administration could balance the budget and make payments against the national debt.

Goldwater's tour opening statement said Johnson "lists prosperity, justice and peace as the three parts of his pledge to the American people. But not freedom."

The President, in a Labor Day speech at Detroit, talked of "three of the goals which are the basis of unity—the goals of prosperity, justice and peace."

"He should know," Goldwater said, "and the American people should remember, that there have been prosperous slaves, that justice can be found in a prison and that tyranny can bring peace to anyone who will surrender."

"Without freedom," he added, "unity is nothing more than conformity."

Goldwater said Johnson's speech "emphasizes the choice that Americans face in this election—the choice between conformity or freedom at home and the choice between weakness or strength abroad."

"This administration in effect promises to regiment our people at home and has demonstrated that it will wreck our alliances abroad," the Arizona senator said.

Newport Names City Manager

NEWPORT, Ark. (AP) — The Newport City manager board announced Monday the appointment of Gale W. Lawley, 35, as Newport City Manager.

Lawley, of Fort Worth, Tex., currently is a member of the Research and Budget Department of the Fort Worth, Tex., city manager staff. He will succeed Don Brown who resigned effective Sept. 20 to take a post with the U.S. Agency for International Development in Viet Nam.

After the weekly breakfast of the Democratic leaders with President Johnson, a newsmen called Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey's attention to Miller's statement and asked the Democratic vice-presidential candidate to comment.

"Mr. Miller speaks for himself," Humphrey said. "He obviously doesn't know much about what the U.S. has been doing."

The Democratic Senate leader, Mike Mansfield of Montana, said, "I am sure he is not aware of the facts."

"It is inconsistent with the truth, to say the least," said House Speaker John W. McCormack.

McCormack said he told Johnson that the House leadership will do everything possible to get a vote on medical care for the aged under Social Security.

He said this would be done either through a direct vote on the issue or by including it in some other legislation.

Cotton Crop 1.5 Million in Arkansas

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department made an upward revision Tuesday of its forecast of Arkansas cotton production this year.

Color Bar Falls in Montgomery

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — The color bar fell with little notice today in three Montgomery schools.

The only outward sign of opposition was a quiet picket line at one of the high schools.

Negroes entered Lanier and Lee high schools and Harrison Elementary School on schedule.

At Harrison, two Negro children walked in shortly after 8:30 a.m. Hardly anyone paid attention to them as they entered the building with their mothers.

The four pickets walked across the street from Robert E. High School as three Negro students arrived for their first day of classes. They entered after white students went to class a few minutes earlier.

A handful of housewives joined the newsmen who observed the desegregation from across the street.

Three Negro students, two girls and one boy, arrived at Lanier in private cars. Police stopped them inside the doors, apparently to check their identification, and then admitted them and their parents.

Intersections around all the schools were guarded by policemen.

Senate Tackles Apportionment Measure Anew

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Seventeen senators joined today in filing a petition to shut off debate in the Senate battle over the Supreme Court's legislative reapportionment decision.

The fight over this issue is the chief stumbling block to adjournment of Congress.

The petition to invoke the anti-filibuster rule was submitted by Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois shortly after the Senate convened at the end of a Labor day recess.

Under the rules, the petition will come to a vote one hour after the Senate meets on Thursday.

The move, requiring a two-thirds majority of senators voting, is designed to limit further debate by a group of liberal Democrats against a legislative apportionment rider to the pending $3.3-billion foreign aid bill.

Dirksen is chief sponsor of the rider, aimed at delaying for a year or more Supreme Court-ordered reapportionment of seats in both houses state legislatures on a population basis.

He wants to gain time to seek adoption of a constitutional amendment, that would permit states to apportion seats in one Continued on Page Two

TV Refuses AMA Spots on Health Plan

NEW YORK (AP) — The three national television networks today confirmed published reports that they refused about $750,000 in revenue offered by the American Medical Association for one-minute commercials dramatizing AMA opposition to the Johnson administration's medical care plan.

Spokesmen for the National Broadcasting Co. the Columbia Broadcasting System and American Broadcasting Co. all said it was against network policy to sell a minute of time for a controversial issue.

They noted that such was not the case for political campaign commercials or any issue involving the electorate—such as an impending referendum.

The AMA has hired Fuller & Smith & Ross, Inc., New York advertising agency, for the television phase of its campaign which also would utilize newspapers and radio.

Arthur E. Duram, an executive of the agency, said the AMA probably will attempt to place the proposed television advertising on local stations in "20 or 30" major cities.

Duram said he was not surprised at the networks' refusal to carry the one-minute announcements, but he believed individual stations would accept them.

There was no immediate comment from the AMA.

Says Faubus Won't Talk of Rich Friends

RECTOR, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Orval E. Faubus and Republican Winthrop Rockefeller shifted gears and turned their campaigns into the home stretch Monday night with addresses at a Labor Day picnic here.

Both men took advantage of the largest audiences they've had during the campaign to lash out at each other over a variety of issues.

Rockefeller, who spoke first, defended himself before a crowd of 8,000 persons, from previous attacks by Faubus.

He commented that it was ironic that Faubus had been calling him a carpetbagger but had not used the same word for Northern Industrialists who have come to Arkansas to check its potential.

Rockefeller also said that he doesn't understand why Faubus pokes fun at him for being a millionaire yet does not poke fun at his own millionaire friends.

Rockefeller defended his moving to Arkansas, saying that he decided to make the state his home 12 years ago after traveling through many states seeking a home.

"Faubus is in Arkansas because of an accident," Rockefeller said. "He was born here."

The Republican candidate said Faubus had been making promises for new roads and hard surfaced roads in some areas.

"Who is he to promise these things?" Rockefeller questioned. "If he can promise highways then the content of the Mack-Blackwell Amendment is invalid. Highways should not be a political tool."

The Mack-Blackwell Amendment was passed to take the state Highway Department out of politics.

Rockefeller criticized Faubus for finding $2 million during an election year to increase pay for teachers and questioned where the governor would get $17 million dollars necessary to support a future pay raise of from $1,000 to $1,500 which Faubus has proposed.

Rockefeller said his organization has been training people to help hold honest elections and said there would be poll watchers in every precinct in the state during the general election.

Rockefeller spoke earlier in the day at a Labor Day picnic in North Little Rock then stopped in Paragould for the formal opening of his Greene County campaign headquarters.

Hurricane Dora Sets Course for Florida

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Dora, a monster packing winds of 125 miles an hour, pounded relentlessly toward Florida's well-populated mid-section today.

Ahead of her, she swept the Atlantic with raging tides, crashing waves and huge swells that threatened to slam ashore late tonight and Wednesday.

Residents in low-lying areas along 280 miles of coast in Florida, Georgia and South Carolina were advised to evacuate. Tides 10 feet above normal were forecast.

The Weather Bureau said hurricane-force winds could begin moaning along the shore tonight from Melbourne, Fla., just south of the nation's space center at Cape Kennedy, to Brunswick, Ga.

ed States. He said tariff reductions backed by the Democratic administration already have affected industry and employment adversely but more cuts are being sought. "Do we have to make the same dumb mistakes over and over again?" he asked.

Miller also pledged a series of tax cuts so that government "takes progressively less of the fruits of your labor."

Repeating a favorite campaign topic, Miller said that "those who make trouble in our streets, whether it takes the form of open rioting or goes under the more sophisticated name of 'civil disobedience' will find no comfort, just condemnation" from a GOP administration. This drew a big hand from his audience.

Taxes will be the subject of Goldwater's address in Los Angeles tonight. A source high in Goldwater's campaign organization outlined to newsmen Monday some of the senator's thinking on taxes and the federal budget.

The source said Goldwater would aim to begin the 5 per cent yearly corporate and private income tax reduction in June 1964, and continue it for five years. It would be coupled, he said, with a slice in federal excise taxes.

Accompanying the tax cut would be reduction of federal expenditures or at least a holding action which would produce a balanced budget over the five-year period.

Humphrey, campaigning in Ohio, told a Youngstown news conference in answer to a question he was concerned over the future of civil rights should Goldwater be elected. He said this concern stemmed from the fact that Goldwater not only voted against the 1964 Civil Rights Act, "he denounced it."

The Democratic vice presidential candidate attacked Goldwater throughout the day as being out of step not only with his own party but with the age.

"I think Goldwater opposes all people in his party that disagree with him and those people that believe in the 20th century," he told a Labor Day gathering in Youngstown Monday night.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The American Broadcasting Company seems to be staking a claim on military life. This season it will have six shows, three of them comedies, involving uniforms.

"Combat" will be back with its mud-stained heroes continuing their grim battle across France from the beachheads towards the Rhine. This year they will get some air support from "12 O'Clock High" a new series about a bomber group.

"McHale's Navy," still fighting the funny war in the Pacific, this year is joined by a sister show, "Broadside" about a bunch of lady sailors. There is "No Time for Sergeants," adapted from the army-life movie that gave Andy Griffith his big push — and, interestingly, Griffith's competition this season.

CBS has two new entries. One is a documentary series, "The Great War," a study of the 1914-18 conflict. The other is a child of Andy Griffith's comedy series called "Gomer Pyle — USMC," with Jim Nabors playing a country-style Marine recruit.

Comedy wars are rarely dangerous in televisionland, but they are not exactly a barrel of fun for the performers. On one of the hottest days of the summer, Nabors and company were on location in a wild canyon beyond Beverly Hills filming an episode about a training maneuver. For more than an hour in the broiling sun Nabors had been working on one scene in which he had to carry a husky actor around a bend and then — with his burden still slung over a shoulder — go through a lengthy dialogue. The problem was that Nabors was so winded by the time he reached the microphone he could scarcely gasp.

"I carried him all day yesterday, too," the actor moaned, mopping a sweaty brow and fanning himself with his helmet liner. "Last night I was so plumb tuckered out I fell asleep."

da's east coast late last month before turning out into the North Atlantic. Cleo's top winds were only 30 miles across.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Dora settled in a more westerly course early today and took direct aim on the nation's space center at Cape Kennedy.

Hurricane warnings were posted from Melbourne, Fla., just south of the missile center, to Brunswick, Ga. The Weather Bureau advised residents in low-lying areas where access roads might be cut off by high tides to evacuate today.

The huge storm, with 130-mile-an-hour winds near the center, was centered about 400 miles due east of Cape Kennedy this morning.

A hurricane watch with gale warnings was posted from Stuart, Fla., just north of Palm Beach, to Myrtle Beach, S.C.

Dora, moving westward at 15 miles an hour, was expected to lash the hurricane warning area with hurricane force winds by tonight and early Wednesday. Gale force winds extended nearly 350 miles to the north of the hurricane's eye and 100 miles to the south.

The Weather Bureau ordered all residents in the area of hurricane warning to take necessary precautions against high winds and tides.

"All persons on low coastal areas of northeast Florida, Georgia and South Carolina should take the necessary action to protect themselves against these tides," the advisory said.

Tropical storm Florence was spotted far out in the east Atlantic. Preliminary position reports early this morning placed the storm at latitude 22 north, longitude 29.5 west. The Weather Bureau said military reports on the storm indicated winds of 50 miles an hour in squalls near the center.

The Red Cross set up a southeastern area disaster headquarters at Jacksonville, Fla. Disaster experts from throughout the southeast were called in Sunday to await assignment.

Additional emergency Red Cross workers were dispatched to Brunswick and Savannah in Georgia. In Atlanta, Adjutant General George Hearn said civil defense units were alerted along the coast.

Volunteer rescue units were alerted in Savannah by Roger Skelton, chief of civil defense. He said extremely high tides were expected at Savannah by noon today.

Shelters in Savannah, capable of housing about 90,000 were stocked with food and medical supplies and appeals were sent out for blood donors to make up a shortage reported at the blood bank.

Hurricane Ethel was located about 400 miles south southeast of Bermuda.

On its present course, the Hurricane Ethel will likely hit Bermuda with gale force winds this afternoon or tonight, according to the Weather Bureau.

Faubus reverted to a grass-roots, fire and brimstone speech style he used 10 years ago as he addressed a crowd estimated at 9,000 persons.

He charged that Rockefeller had sent 53,000 solicitation letters for campaign funds not only to Arkansans but to people in every state.

Faubus said he had copies of the letters turned over to him by recipients in Montana and New York. "I think this is improper," Faubus said.

"I tell you," the governor continued, "Rockefeller and his supporters are spending money like it is going out of style."

Faubus said Rockefeller keeps "hollaring" that he had been in the governor's office too long but said the people evidently do not have the same opinion.

The real test is service, Faubus said, adding that if a politician gives good service, he should be kept in office.

Faubus said Rockefeller's prestige in the East is at stake in the election.

"The governorship means nothing to him, other than another trophy to hang on the wall," Faubus said.

The governor said that the state had gained more industry and the economic situation had improved since Rockefeller resigned from the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission.

He will produce records shortly, he said, to verify that statement.

Faubus told the crowd that if money will buy the governor's chair Rockefeller will be governor on Jan. 1.

"I know that Winthrop Rockefeller has already spent $15,000 to outfit campaign workers with special uniforms," he said.

Faubus estimated the Rockefeller family fortune at $200 billion and Winthrop's personal fortune at $100 million. He said the republican candidate earned $7 million last year.

"I'm not running this race scared," Faubus said. "I'm being realistic. I cannot conceivably raise enough money to match Rockefeller's campaign outlay."

Senate Tackles

branch of their legislatures on a basis other than population.

Joining him in filing the cloture petition were two Democratic senators and 14 Republican senators. The total of 17 was one more than is required by the rules.

One of the democratic signers was Sen. James O. Eastland of Mississippi, who long has battled against use of the filibuster against civil rights measures.

The other Democratic signer was A.S. Mike Monroney of Oklahoma.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said it appeared "very doubtful" that the cloture rule would be invoked, limiting each senator's speaking time to one hour.

If the cloture move fails, a group of liberal Democrats who have been carrying on what Dirksen calls a filibuster against his proposal will be free to keep on talking indefinitely.

Dirksen's proposal, offered as a rider to the $3.3-billion foreign aid authorization bill, could be tabled and thus killed if opponents could line up a majority against it. So far they have been unable to do so.

With the stalemate standing in the way of congressional adjournment, there were reports that Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., President Johnson's vice presidential running mate, now is ready to throw his weight publicly behind the anti-Dirksen forces.

Johnson so far has kept silent on the reapportionment issue. The platform adopted by the Democrats at their national convention in Atlantic City avoided the subject altogether, in contrast with the GOP platform pledge to support action to overturn the Supreme Court's ruling.

The dispute is more an urban-rural clash than a party-line fight. Big-city and suburban spokesmen protest that state legislative districts are heavily weighted in favor of rural areas and argue that federal court orders offer the only hope of reapportionment.

Law Specific on Independents

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The attorney general's office ruled today that state law prohibits a person from filing as an independent candidate for an office he failed to win in a party primary.

The only exception would be in the case of death or withdrawal of the party nominee, Asst. Atty. Gen. Beryl Anthony Jr. wrote in the opinion.

The ruling went to R. W. Laster, city attorney at Lepanto.

Arkansan Named to Advisory Board

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Roy Prewitt, of Lonoke, has been named one of about 50 technical advisors to the Trade Information Committee formed under the Trade Expansion Act of 1962.

The group will advise on negotiations of tariffs and trade exchanges on the international level. Four advisors from each major export-import field were named to the group.

Prewitt is also a member of the Advisory Committee to the Bureau of Commercial Fisheries and a fish farmer.

Ruling Party in India Tossed Out

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Lal Bahadur Shastri's ruling Congress party was thrown out of power in Kerala State today by the Communist-led opposition on a vote of no confidence.

The fall of the Congress government in this tropical state on India's southwest coast came by a vote of 72-50, with 15 dissident Congress party members siding with the opposition.

Shastri, who also faces a motion of no confidence in the Indian Parliament, now must either turn the Kerala administration over to the Communists, or run the state's affairs from New Delhi under the rarely used device called president's rule.

This would be a drastic step, like Washington taking over control of a state government, and there was no immediate word which step Shastri will take.

In New Delhi, an onslaught of Communists and other opposition parties mounted in Parliament with angry blasts bailing the current food crisis on the bureaucratic bungling of Shastri's government.

Shastri sat quietly with folded hands in a front row seat as speaker after speaker — Communists, Socialists, Independents and Hindu rightists — denounced his regime for failing to meet food shortages and spiraling food prices.

The opposition alliance was building up to a vote on Thursday or Friday on the no-confidence motion they managed to get introduced Monday on the first day of the first Parliament session since the death of Premier Minister Nehru in May.

Primaries in 6 States on Tuesday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nominations for four Senate seats, four governors' mansions and 28 House seats are at stake today in primary elections in six states.

With no major challenges mounted against incumbent governors or senators, most of the interest is on the Republican gubernatorial races in Arizona and New Hampshire.

Other states with party primaries today are Colorado, Minnesota, Vermont and Wisconsin. Georgia voters will pick House nominees Wednesday and Massachusetts will have a primary involving House, Senate and gubernatorial candidates Thursday.

Here's a rundown on major races:

ARIZONA

Richard G. Kleindienst, former aide of Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater, is competing with auto dealer and publisher Evan Mecham for the GOP gubernatorial nomination. Gov. Paul Fannin is unopposed for the Republican nomination to the Senate seat now held by Goldwater.

Four Democrats seek the gubernatorial nomination and six are scrambling for the right to oppose Fannin. Included in the latter group are former State Supreme Court Justice Renz Jennings and Roy Elson, administrative assistant to Sen. Carl Hayden, D-Ariz.

NEW HAMPSHIRE

Former Gov. Wesley Powell is trying for a comeback in the GOP gubernatorial primary against the man who ousted him two years ago, former State Rep. John Pillsbury. After the 1962 primary Powell endorsed John W. King who went on to become the state's first Democratic governor in 40 years. King is unopposed for Democratic nomination to a second term.

COLORADO

All four House members seeking nominations to new terms are unopposed. There is no balloting this year for governor or senator.

MINNESOTA

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy is favored over two lesser known foes in his try for Democratic nomination to a second term. Wheelock Whitney, 38, is unopposed for the GOP Senate nomination.

VERMONT

Sen. William Proxmire is favored over two opponents in the Senate Democratic primary while Wilbur Rens is unopposed for the second term. Wheelock Whitney, 38, is unopposed for the GOP Senate nomination.

WISCONSIN

Sen. Winston L. Prouty has no Republican primary opposition as he shoots for a second term. The man he beat six years ago, State Sen. Frederick J. Fayette, is opposed for the Democratic nomination by former Rep. William H. Meyer. In the gubernatorial race Gov. Philip H. Hoff, first Democrat to lead the state in more than a century, is unopposed for nomination to a second term while three men, including Lt. Gov. Ralph A. Foote, seek the Republican nomination.

Khushchev to Make Two Big Pitches

By HENRY S. BRADSHAW

MOSCOW (AP) — During his forthcoming trip to West Germany, Premier Khrushchev is expected to make strong pitches on two fronts.

The first is political and would involve promoting the Kremlin's long-cherished plan for a World War II peace treaty that would formalize the division of Germany.

The West German government would not agree to any such treaty, but Khrushchev may attempt to make his proposals more tempting by moving over to the economic front and offering lucrative trade deals.

The West German economy depends heavily on exports, and trade deals with the vast, underdeveloped Soviet Union always have tempted Ruhr industrialists.

But diplomatic observers in Bonn Thursday night were saying the prospect of any major agreement with Khrushchev is very slight.

They did voice some apprehension that Khrushchev might try to play West Germany off against France on the question of trade with the Soviet Union. France, in order to get Soviet orders for expensive chemical factories, is reportedly ready to grant the Soviets long-term credits.

The Western Allies have had a long-standing policy of keeping such credits down to five-year terms or less, but the French are reportedly ready to jump the traces.

West Germany, on the other hand, remains under closer American control and its trade negotiators would be under strong pressure not to grant long-term credits.

Diplomatic observers in Bonn also noted that Khrushchev's visit was announced at a time of a further cooling in French-West German relations. President Charles de Gaulle's World War II anniversary message to Khrushchev earlier this week caused some uneasiness among officials of the West German government.

To them, the tone of the De Gaulle message seemed unusually cordial. Some West German officials fear De Gaulle might further modify his support of the Allied position on the Berlin question and the German problem in general.

As for the visit's effect on Soviet-West German relations, diplomatic observers in Moscow felt Khrushchev had in mind something more than just a vague hope for improvement of relations.

It was noted that during his current visit to Czechoslovakia, Khrushchev had unexpected conferences with the foreign ministers of Poland, Hungary and Bulgaria. This led to immediate speculation that he might be consulting them about some possible switch in the Kremlin's policy toward Germany.

Details for the visit still must be arranged. It is expected that the visit will come after the U.S. presidential election Nov. 3.

Goldwater Produces No Surprises

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater's speech, formally opening his presidential bid, contained no surprises but was rather a kind of foundation for what he can say later in the campaign.

This speech Thursday was a roundup of positions he has stated before. For this reason, because it touched so many bases, it was short on details. If he doesn't go into details later, the Democrats will probably challenge him to.

Goldwater has been accused of shooting from the hip and once admitted this may be so. Thursday he bore down hard on his peaceful intentions, called the Republicans the "peace party," and made peace a steady theme in his talk.

Because so much he said was a repetition in one form or another of what he had said before this speech at Prescott, Ariz., was not exactly fiery but, in the process, he put a lot of pieces together and can work on them later.

He promised, if elected, to end the draft "as soon as possible." He said the armed forces need trained volunteers. As early as last February he said he thought the peacetime draft could be ended.

A couple of months after he had said that President Johnson ordered a study of the draft system and said the study group would consider the possibility of ending selective service within a decade.

When he said "the shadow of scandal falls, unlighted yet

British May Take Religion Out of School

By GODFREY ANDERSON

LONDON (AP) — A move to take religious teaching out of Britain's schools has some Church of England people worried. They feel many parents just can't be trusted to see that their children are taught religion at all.

The teaching of scripture and a daily act of worship is compulsory in both state and private schools under the Education Act of 1944. Each child must have a minimum of one period of religious instruction each week. And, because the Church of England is the state-established church, the teaching usually conforms with Anglican theology except in cases such as Roman Catholic schools.

While Britain's expensive and exclusive private schools long have had staff clergy to act as chaplains and teach religion, most state schools keep the scripture period to the strict minimum; others just ignore it. Schools up and down the land start their day with a hymn or two and a prayer, but this — as Anglican writer Eric Russell has described it — is a formality "to serve only as a necessary introduction to the more important business of the sports results, and the occasional appeal for a good home for three white mice no longer of use in the biology department."

"Grace before meals," the same writer has observed, "is

Bob Thomas at the Movies

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer r HOLLYWOOD (AP) — You'd scarcely recognize those scroungy "Rea McCoy's" in their new shows for the coming television season.

Grandpa McCoy — Walter Brennan — has changed his overalls for the fancy duds of a millionaire financier in "Tycoon."

Luke McCoy — Richard Crenna — will be playing a clean-cut, Ivy league-clothes state legislator in "Slattery's People."

And Kate McCoy — Kathy Nolan — will be shipshape and clean-tailored as a wartime WAVE in "Broadside."

Our subject today is Miss Nolan, and the difference in her is more than a change of costume. For one thing, she has dropped 35 pounds from her top "McCoy" weight, down to a slender 97. And there's a new exuberance which she didn't possess during the latter stages of her five-year run in "Rea McCoy's."

Kathy plays a Navy lieutenant, leader of a group of WAVES sent to a Pacific Island to take over a motor pool. It has been called the female counterpart of "McHale's Navy," from the same Universal City stable, and indeed the two shows will share some backgrounds. Kathy is carrying the heaviest load of the show on her slim but sturdy shoulders.

"I am just about in every page of each script except for about seven-eighths of one page," she said. "I was talking to Dick Crenna on the phone the other day and we both had to laugh."

"When we were in the 'McCoy's,' we were always complaining about how we were always in the background and how we never got the laugh lines. Now he and I are doing shows in which we're in every shot, and we're looking for ways to get less to do!"

But she's not really complaining. Even though she has been in and out of the hospital and the divorce court, she has worked at a steady clip. The fact that she has a share of the series' profits helps maintain her enthusiasm.

ABC has indicated more than the usual preseason optimism about "Broadside," and Kathy is hopeful of a long run.

Selected Coppers High on Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Selected coppers were strong in a generally higher stock market early this afternoon. Trading was moderately active.

Gains of fractions to a point or so outnumbered losers in the list of key stocks.

Anaconda and Kennecott were exceptions, making sharper gains in response to news that the leftist presidential candidate in Chile who would have expropriated their properties there — had been defeated soundly.

Anaconda, swamped with buy orders, finally opened on a huge block of 73,000 shares, up 3/4 at 50 1/2, trimming the gain slightly in later dealings.

Kennecott held a 2-point rise after opening early. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .8 at 319.0 with industrials up 1.6, rails unchanged and utilities up .2.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 337 at 851.68, just above the historic closing high of 851.35 set July 17.

Motors were hesitant as late also treated as formal hypocrisy and one pupil has been heard to offer a revised version of a familiar prayer: "For what we are about to receive, may the Lord have mercy upon us."

However, a recent survey by the Institute of Christian Education disclosed strong majority support for continued religious teaching.

Some teachers have written to the papers to say that they consider the daily act of worship a farce and the teaching of scripture largely ineffective. Others argue it is wrong to teach a child a specific religious faith.

The Church of England paper, editorially bawling the desperate shortage of Christian teachers in Britain, commented: "The U.S.A. has an interesting case. It could be called Christian in a far more real sense than Britain; yet it insists that no religion is taught in schools. This gives a big impetus to the local churches and their Bible classes. Would the same thing happen here if scripture teaching were taken out of the schools? It is very doubtful. Parents, who would shoulder most of the responsibility for seeing that their children hear the teaching of the faith, have shown very little indication that they would collaborate effectively. And where would the teachers come from?"

Wedding Vows Are Repeated

Mrs. Bennie Charles Downing

Bennie Charles Downing and his bride, the former Miss Mary Lou Park, who were married Sunday afternoon, August 30, are on a wedding trip to Mexico, and upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Downing will be at home in Hutto, Texas, where the bridegroom will be associated with his father, in business.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvis Leonard Park of Hope, Arkansas, is a former student of the University of Arkansas and is a senior at Texas Christian University, where she is a member of Pi Beta Phi.

Mr. and Mrs. Bennie Newman Downing, Hutto, Texas, are parents of the bridegroom. He is a graduate of TCU and is a member of Delta Sigma Pi, international business fraternity.

The Rev. John A. Beasley, pastor of the First Christian Church, officiated at the double-ring ceremony in the First Presbyterian Church of Hope, Arkansas, before an arch enhanced with southern smilax and lighted tapers. Cascades of foliage and burning vigil lights extended the length of the altar space, and baskets of gladioli additionally adorned either side of the altar for the occasion.

The nuptial music was presented by Luther Holloman, organist, and David Pearson, soloist, who sang "Because," "Whither Thou Goest," and "Wedding Prayer," before the exchange of vows and at the conclusion of the ceremony "The Lord's Prayer" while the couple knelt on a prie dieu.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of candlelight silk tulle. The tightly moulded bodice was fashioned with a decollete neckline of ivory hand-run lace. The elbow-length lace sleeves were fitted, and tiny covered buttons fastened the back of the gown. The bell-shaped skirt of controlled fullness was marked at the waistline by lace appliques and scattered appliques of the lace enhanced the front and the back of the gown. The train of unpressed pleat fullness swept to chapel length. The bride's veil of imported white silk illusion was caught to a crown of seed pearls, and her cascade bouquet was a cluster of gardenias and fleur d'amour.

Miss Sherry Lynn Kinser of Little Rock, cousin of the bride, was the bride's maid-of-honor. Also attending the bride were Misses Sharon Fielding, Louise Prather of Hope, Arkansas; Cecilia Cox, Fulton, Arkansas; Aleda Hanstrom, Hutto, Texas; Mmes. Ronnie Downing, Lloyd Downing of Fort Worth, Texas; and Phil Grace of Wichita Falls, Texas. Miss Kathy Kinser of Little Rock, cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid.

All the attendants wore emerald green drama satin gowns with wide oval necklines and elbow-length sleeves.

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The campaign office of Gov. Orval E. Faubus said Thursday that Faubus will speak at Labor Day picnics at 5 p.m. in McDouglas and at 7 p.m. at Rector.

Faubus will meet Saturday with Hot Spring County officials and party officials at Malvern, and with Garland County officials at Hot Springs.

bor talks at Chrysler neared the strike deadline. Chrysler dipped fractionally. Ford and General Motors traded about unchanged. Steels were mostly unchanged, with Republic up slightly.

United Aircraft, up 2, was a strong feature in a generally higher aerospace group. Boeing rose nearly a point.

Retails chemicals, electronics and airlines showed an irregularly higher trend. Cigarettes, rails electronics and building materials were mixed.

Losses of around a point were taken by IBM, Polaroid and Xerox.

Prices were higher in quiet trading on the American Stock Exchange. Corporate bonds were higher. U.S. government bonds were steady.

bow-length sleeves. The floor-length pleated dome skirts were accentuated with a fringed bow in the center front of the waistline. They wore headpieces in the same color as the dresses with tiers of illusion. The flowers were bouquets of bronze pom poms.

Mr. Bert Johnson of Hutto, Texas, served as best man to the bridegroom. Groomsmen were Messrs. Ronnie Downing, Lloyd Downing of Fort Worth, Texas; Frank Ellis, John Ellis of Pittsburg, Texas; Phil Grace of Wichita Falls, Texas; Edwin Farrar of Palmer, Texas; and Ross Stromberg of Hutto, Texas. Thomas Kinser, III of Little Rock, cousin of the bride, was junior groomsmen.

Serving as ushers were Messrs. Jim Garrett of Hurst, Texas; Jim Webb of Midlothian, Texas; and Steve Newman of Winsboro, Texas.

Eric Stromberg and Miss Marilyn Hanstrom of Hutto, Texas, were candlelighters. Miss Hanstrom was dressed in similar manner to the other attendants.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Park were hosts at a reception at the Hope Country Club, which was decorated with white stock, white pom poms, and white wedding bells. Mrs. Park chose for her daughter's wedding an ice-blue brocade satin dress, a small blue maline hat, and a gardenia corsage bouquet. Mrs. Downing, mother of the bridegroom, who assisted in greeting the guests, wore mauve lace and a matching headpiece. Her corsage was also of gardenias.

Mrs. Thomas Kinser, maternal grandmother of the bride, wore winter-gold silk with cloche to match. Mrs. Floyd Porterfield, great-grandmother of the bride chose floral pink for her dress with matching accessories, and Mrs. W.M. Blackard of Fort Smith, paternal grandmother of the bride, selected navy silk. All wore gardenia corsages.

Mrs. H. D. Mendel, of Ft. Stockton, Tex., cousin of the bridegroom, wore a light green silk with matching accessories and pinned a gardenia at her shoulder.

Silver candelabra with white tapers, antique vase of silver holding white gladioli and white pom poms, silver punch bowl, and serving tabl draped with imported nylon net and white wedding bells, formed an exquisite setting for the bride's five-tiered wedding cake. An antique silver punch ladle used for serving was also used at the wedding reception of the bride's great-grandmother, Mrs. Floyd Porterfield.

Mrs. Thompson Evans, Jr. greeted guests at the head of the receiving line. Mmes. Mike Kelly and Jack Fielding served the wedding cake, and Mmes. Calvin Caldwell and W. A. Williams poured the iced beverage.

The bride's book was in charge of Mrs. Jerry Owen. Misses Kathy Kinser, Aleda Hanstrom, and Marilyn Hanstrom dispensed rice bags to the guests.

Serving the groom's cake and coffee were Miss Dorothy Smith and Mrs. Jerry Garrett.

Others extending courtesies included Mmes. Roy Allison, A. L. Hardage, McDowell Turner, B. N. Holt, Byron Hefer, James H. Jones, Winston Duke Nancy Kinser, Lawrence Rambo, Charles Hanstrom, Jack Templar, and Misses Tena Pilkinton and Nancy Craddock.

For her wedding trip, the bride chose a fall suit of carnation red, with beaver hat of carnation red trimmed in black. Black accessories and a gardenia corsage from her bouquet complimented her ensemble.

Also here from elsewhere for the nuptials were Mmes. H. D. Mendel, Fort Stockton, Texas; Eric Stromberg, Carl Stromberg, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Humphries and Miss Mary Jane Humphries, Fort Worth, Texas; Messrs. Thomas Kinser, Jr. and Bill Pendergraff, Little Rock, Ark.; Jack Templar, Belton, Texas; and Joseph Spiller, Fort Worth, Texas.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) —

French provincial is out and Spanish influence is in — as far as Hollywood and television decorating and furniture styles are concerned this season.

Art collections continue to be conspicuous, now that almost everybody has turned Sunday painter and dabbles in oils.

Observation of the constant ebb and flow of fads and fancies is part of the fun for the annual or semiannual visitor to the fast-grinding mills of television.

Perhaps even more interesting, however, is to watch the development of a typical success syndrome which seems to affect so many young unknown performers once they are lucky enough to land a regular job in a TV series that becomes a hit.

To describe its classic course, it is best to use a fictitious character who shall be called John Doe, because his agent did not think his real name, Bruce Windsor, had the right kind of marquee sparkle. John, who was a salesman in a used car lot between acting jobs, was given the lead in a low-budget series and, in the usual pre-season exploitation, eagerly took on all interviews.

"I'm the luckiest fellow in the world," he said humbly. "And in addition to the great break, I have an opportunity to work with the greatest team in the world. And all you people are so great."

For some reason, the series unexpectedly was a hit, renewed for another season. This time reporters are escorted to John Doe's dressing room for interviews.

"Ah," he exclaimed, suavely, "this is the hardest work in the world, but it is great experience. I'm glad to be able to develop the character and expose new facets. It would be nice, too, if I can get off long enough to make a feature movie — and, of course, I'm thinking of other series in the future."

By the third year, it is very hard to see John because he lunches daily with his business manager to discuss his real estate holdings, is busy making a record album after work and always rushes out of town to a secret hideaway to rest up on weekends. Caught in a set-side interview, however, he expresses some concern that his scripts were not quite to his liking and explains that he finds it necessary to do a little rewriting himself to keep the character "real and identifiable."

But by the fourth year, John is in the full grip of the success syndrome. He is — through his agent — quarreling bitterly over a new million-dollar contract because he wants a full six months a year off to do movies. He has developed an overriding fear that his whole career is being destroyed because he has lost his identity in the character he plays. All he wants is to find a nice juicy starring part in a Broadway play. And, although he still has daily business lunches with his manager, they now discuss literary properties for his production company which is, of course, named by the first two letters of each of his children's names. If he is occasionally available for interviews, it is likely to sound more like a heart-to-heart talk with a tax accountant.

Of course, when the series cycle starts again — if John Doe is lucky enough to get a part.

"DEAR ABBY"

TELL HIM TO STAY LOST!

By Abigail Van Buren

Dear Abby: Fifteen years ago, when I was 20, I was very fond of a 24-year-old man-about-town who gave me a big rush. Then I discovered that he was telling outrageous lies about me in order to build his reputation as a lady-killer. I dropped him immediately, and have had no contact with him since. I am now happily married and have a lovely home and family. My mother wrote that this old boy friend had visited my home town, and he'd telephoned her asking for my address. He said he travels a lot and wanted to see me again to talk over old times. My mother innocently gave it to him. How should I handle him if he calls me? Should I discuss it with my husband in case he should call? I definitely want no more to do with this man.

UPSET
Dear Upset: Don't discuss it with your husband. He might

Unidentified Body Found

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Pulaski County Sheriff's officers recovered the body of an unidentified white man Monday from a small pond near the Saline — Pulaski County line east of U.S. 67-70.

Officers said the body was recovered from about 18 inches of water at the edge of the pond. They said the man, about 20 or 21-years-old had several bruises and there is a possibility that foul play may have been involved.

The body was discovered by a group of Negroes who called the sheriff's office.

wonder why you are so upset over a lot of 15-year-old lies. If Mr. Lady-killer calls, tell him that you are happily married and would rather not see him, so please not to call again.

Dear Abby: I am a 16-year-old girl who needs a straight answer. Exactly, what is wrong with falling asleep with a boy if you have all your clothes on? Please don't say it's just not "right" as that is no answer. Thank you.

WANTS TO KNOW
Dear Wants: There's a time for entertaining a boy and a time for sleeping. When it's time to sleep, it's time to bid the boy farewell. That way you won't have to wonder if something was said or done — or if you only dreamed it.

Dear Abby: I am involved with a married man in his 40's. We love each other, Abby. I know our relationship is wrong, but I am discreet and manage to see him without disrupting his family life. Lately he has been talking about divorcing his wife and marrying me. Nothing would make me happier than to be his wife, but the last thing I want to do is break up his home. He has a compatible relationship with his wife, but he doesn't love her. He is just staying with her because of the children. He is well able to support two families. How can I convince him that divorce would be unfair to his family? He is 20 years older than I, but sometimes I feel like his mother. He's the only man I've ever loved and I don't want to lose him.

WILLING TO WAIT
Dear Willing: To wait for what? Until his children are grown and gone, and his wife is 55? Will divorce then be any easier on his wife? Face it. The "only man you've ever loved" belongs to somebody else. And did when you met him. Match your discretion with decency, and get out of his life.

Confidential To B. W. At Wavi In Dayton: A little birdie (all right, Reed Sherman) reported that you are now the original THIN MAN! Congratulations, Handsome. How did you do it?

AN OPEN LETTER TO AUTO DRIVERS

303 Parents Circle
Typical Town, U. S. A.
September 8, 1964

Dear Driver:

Today my 10 year old son started another round of schooling. At 8:00 this morning he swaggered out the front door with the world in his pocket. His well worn ball cap was set at a cocky angle. His ball glove was on one hand and a lone book was juggling under his arm. What do you think was on his mind? "See you, Mom," he called, "Hope I get to bat before the bell rings." Then he disappeared around the corner. My words of caution, "Watch out for cars", barely caught up with him.

For 10 years his father and I have guarded his safety as best we could. When he started crawling, I put safety devices on the electrical outlets. When he walked, up went scissors, pointed objects and all items poisonous if taken internally. To insure safe summer play for him in his early years, we built a poor but adequate fence around the backyard.

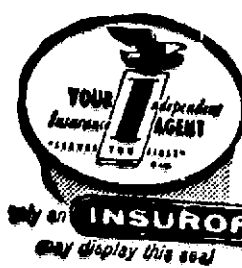

We taught him safety as best we could . . . as well as you can teach a child. We have told him never to cross a street except at an intersection and then to wait until the light was right and the first car had stopped. But you know how children are; they can be watching when they start across but be flying a jet plane over the Pacific by the time they reach the middle. They can forget streets even exist and dart from behind a parked automobile for no reason at all.

When my son walks out our front door now, his safety is in YOUR hands . . . You wouldn't hurt him, would you? Please drive carefully. You can never guess what a child will do.

Please don't run over my little boy.

Pleadingly,
A Loving Mother

The man tried to run. Ives could hear the clatter of stones in the wash as he went over the ragged lip of the bank. The bounding shape of the man - hatless now - had nearly reached the big rock in mid-channel when Ives shot him.

Momentum pushed the man a couple more jumps, then his legs quit working and he went down like a come-about horse, out of sight.

Ives blew the smoke from his rifle and stepped over there. He knew what he would find and he was right: the man was dead.

It wasn't till he'd toed the body over that it hit him. He stood a long time staring at the gray-cheeked face of Alex, Jupe's segundo.

It was late in the shank of the same afternoon that Ives, having finally decided his course, caught up with the herd.

Jupe's face was dark, his boys and boys may take home special pets when they leave Lincoln Hall. There also are horses, rabbits, cats and a monkey on the grounds.

But it's dogs who are the best loved.

"The dogs are a bridge to a new life," explained Brother Christian, director of the 101-year-old institution operated by the Brothers of the Christian Schools.

The 36 dogs of all sizes and breeds are used to help the wayward boys relax and gain confidence.

"Wherever the kids go the dogs go - except in the dining room," said Brother Amator Michael. "We try to keep the dogs out of the classrooms but don't always succeed."

"One problem is that some of the kids won't eat meat sometimes, so that they can take it to the pets."

One of the youngsters is Tony, 14, whose parents are on relief in the Bronx. He was committed to Lincoln Hall in 1961 for assault and larceny. He was released but returned in 1963 for picking pockets and shoplifting.

Tony, a 98-pounder, says he has learned about friendship, self-respect, loyalty and love from Tiny Bear, a 134-pound Newfoundland, who sleeps beside him in a 24-bed cottage.

Tony vows he won't get into trouble again.

Most of the dogs were donated by estate and kennel owners.

Frank Ives did not turn away from this because the fellow might see through it. He was suddenly anxious to get back to Jupe. A man might be willing to stomp his own snakes-even pride himself on being a loner, but no man was God.

He'd lost Jerre French while horsing around with that girl. He didn't feel he could afford to lose his standing with young Cotten. There were too many things a man couldn't keep track of. And that gunnie out there was already rattled! A staunch believer in the efficacy of direct action Ives, throwing aside caution, wildly charged through the door on a dash for the pens.

His bird wasn't asleep. Ives heard the crack of the rifle before he'd covered three strides. But he'd tossed him a curve and the fellow was flustered. He was firing too fast and Ives, reaching the poles, flopped behind a corner post to catch his breath.

There was scarcely a rope's length between them now.

He could imagine the state of the bushwhacker's nerves. Ives' own heart was like a caged wild thing when he lunged up and sprang yelling straight for him.

Growers Ask for Peach Insurance

ATLANTA (AP)-Peach growers from Arkansas and other states asked the Federal Crop Insurance Corp. Wednesday to keep insuring the peach crop without a boost in the premium rate.

Last spring there were huge freeze losses in the crop. About 50 growers from Arkansas, Alabama, Georgia, North Carolina and South Carolina met with FCIC representatives. FCIC manager John N. Luft and the board of directors will decide on the requests.

The corporation said indemnities of $1.5 million were paid to insured growers in 1964 in the corporation's 19 experimental counties where the peach insurance is being developed.

A spokesman said that plans are being considered to extend the peach insurance program to other peach-growing states. The experimental program includes Cross, Howard, Johnson and St. Francis counties in Arkansas.

Skunk Was Rabid

LITTLE ROCK (AP) - The state Health Department said Wednesday that a Magnolia couple bitten by a pet skunk which died of rabies has begun anti-rabies treatment. The department also said pet skunks which bite owners at Pine Bluff and Springdale this year were found to be rabid.

The kid swelled up like a car-buncle. He appeared to forget all about that rifle. His hand made a wild diving sweep.

Cards Keep on Going, Phils Manage a Split

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

The way the St. Louis Cardinals are rolling Bing Devine could become Major League Executive of the Year for the second successive season.

Now if he could only get a job...

Currently the hottest club in the National League, the Cardinals swept a doubleheader from Cincinnati Monday by identical 3-2 scores with similar ninth inning rallies and climbed into a second place tie with the Reds.

The first time since April 19 they've been as high as the runner-up spot.

Devine, named the majors' top executive last year for building the Cardinals into a pennant contender, resigned Aug. 17 in a hassle with the St. Louis front office.

The Cardinals went into a slight skid, but pulled out of it a week later and now have won 12 of their last 15 games.

The streak, coupled with Philadelphia's 8-7 record over the same period has pulled the Cardinals from 11 games back to within 6½ games of the top with some two dozen games still remaining.

The Phillies split their Labor Day doubleheader with the Dodgers, winning 5-1 behind Dennis Bennett's first victory in more than two months before losing the nightcap 3-1.

The San Francisco Giants remained in fourth place — one percentage point back of the Cardinals and Reds — but also climbed to within 6½ games of the Phillies by riding Willie Mays' 40th and 41st homers to 6-4 and 9-6 victories over Pittsburgh.

Milwaukee took two from the Chicago Cubs 10-9 and 8-7 with the second game called after eight innings because of darkness at Wrigley Field.

The New York Mets swept a doubleheader from Houston 7-5 and 6-4.

Baltimore took over the American League lead by splitting with Kansas City, winning 6-1 before losing by the same score.

Washington knocked the Chicago White Sox into second place, 3-0 and 6-2.

The New York Yankees defeated Minnesota 5-4 in 11 innings with a scheduled night game rained out.

Cleveland whipped Detroit 7-2 in a single game and the Los Angeles Angels swept Boston 4-1 and 4-3 in 11 innings.

Ken Boyer pulled the Cardinals into a 2-2 tie in the opener with his 20th homer, then scored the winning run in the ninth.

He walked moved around to third on two passed balls by Don Pavletich and came home on a pinch-hit single by Tim McCarver.

McCarver played Boyer's role in the nightcap, tying it in the seventh with a homer, then starting the winning rally with a ninth inning single.

Julian Javier then forced McCarver, but promptly stole second and rode home on Curt Flood's single.

Locked in a 1-1 tie, the Phillies broke the first game open in the eighth with a four-run rally keyed by Frank Thomas' tie-breaking two-run double.

Bennett brought his record to 10-12 with a five-hitter, breaking a seven-game losing streak that had kept him winless since July 5.

The Dodgers put the nightcap away in the first inning, jumping on 18-year-old Rick Wise for three runs.

Sweepstakes Tickets Sold

SALEM, N.H. (AP) — A total of 31,478 fans at Rockingham Park purchased 17,421 New Hampshire sweepstakes tickets Monday.

The sweepstakes will be run at Rockingham next Saturday. Sweepstakes director Edward J. Powers said the $52,263 in sweepstakes sales Monday — the final day — would push the total sales over the $5.7 million mark.

Texan Wins Dallas Open Tournament

DALLAS (AP) — Tall Texan Charles Coody won the $40,000 Dallas Open Golf Tournament and then observed that it wasn't the money but the fringe benefits that interested him.

"Anybody who wins his first tournament will tell you that," said Coody, who took his first title Monday in less than a year of following the weary tournament trail.

What he meant was that you had to win one in order to really cash in on golf.

His victory here qualifies him for the PGA, Tournament of Champions, Carling's World, Colonial and other big tournaments; gives him a better position in the tournament pairings, prevents his having to qualify for any tournament and a lot of other things that can come to a champion.

Coody also had some other things working for him when he beat off the great challenge of Billy Casper, one of the top winners, and his buddy, Jerry Edwards, to win the $5,800 first money with a record 271 for 72 holes.

Coody said that when his daughter Carolyn was born two years ago Monday he went to the semifinals of the national amateur. Seventeen days ago a son was born and as soon as Coody returned to the tour he won a championship.

Edwards shot a 67 for 272 and Casper and fast-finishing Fred Haas tied for third at 273.

May Be First Negro to Make Grade

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — If Arthur Ashe Jr. makes the grade as the first Negro to play in the Davis Cup Challenge Round for the United States, he wants to do it on his own — he asks no special favors.

"I don't want any special concessions because of the color of my skin," the articulate UCLA senior said today. "I want to be judged only on my tennis."

The skinny, 21-year-old collegian, originally from Richmond, Va., virtually clinched a spot on the final four-man U.S. Davis Cup squad by beating teammate Marty Riessen of Evanston, Ill., in the third round of the national championships Monday, 4-6, 6-3, 8-6, 2-6, 6-4.

He is rated the most likely playing substitute should anything happen to America's big one-two punch of Chuck McKinley and Dennis Ralston.

Ashe has beaten Ralston three times this year.

The U.S. faces the Australians at Cleveland Sept. 25-27.

Ashe wasn't the only Davis Cup hopeful to impress captain Vic Seixas in Monday's matches at the West Side Tennis Club.

Twenty-year-old Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico put up a powerful fight against the No. 1 American ace, McKinley, before finally bowing 3-6, 6-3, 6-2, 8-6.

McKinley and Ashe, seeded fourth and eighth, respectively, gained the men's round of 16 along with top-seeded Australian, Roy Emerson; another Aussie, left-handed Tony Roche; bearded Torben Ulrich of Denmark and Ron Holmberg of Highland Falls, N.Y.

The other 12 berths were to be filled today, with defending champion Rafael Osuna of Mexico, seeded third, playing Owen Davidson of Australia and Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., opposing Crawford Henry of Atlanta.

The women will be trying to catch up with defending champion Maria Bueno of Brazil already in the fourth round after a 7-5, 6-3 triumph over Donna Floyd Fales of New York.

A new American threat for the ladies' crown emerged in the person of a plucky co-ed from St. Louis, Carol Hanks, who eliminated fourth-seeded Lesley Turner of Australia 2-6, 6-3, 6-1.

Chisox Lose Pair, Orioles Split Twin Bill

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bennie Daniels and Dave Stenhouse got it started in Washington and Bob Meyer picked them up in Kansas City. Before it was over, Dave Morehead, Jay Ritchie and Pete Charton made their pitch in Los Angeles.

The game was Can You Top This and the nondescript American League pitchers who played it had themselves a Labor Day lark Monday. Old timer Dean Chance got into the act too and a non-pitching Angel named Jack Hatt had the last laugh.

But the jokers failed to amuse the Chicago White Sox or Baltimore Orioles and the Angels almost wound up with egg on their faces.

Daniels and Stenhouse, with seven previous victories between them, hurled the ninth-place Senators to a 3-0, 6-2 doubleheader sweep over Chicago that dumped the White Sox into second place in the tight AL pennant race.

Southpaw Meyer, discarded by both the New York Yankees and Angels, won his first game for the last-place Athletics, stopping Baltimore 6-1 in the second game of a twin bill after the Orioles had regained the league lead on Wally Bunker's six-hit, 6-1 victory in the opener.

The split left the Orioles one-half game in front of Chicago and 1½ games up on the third place Yankees, who edged Minnesota 5-4 in the 11-inning first game of a scheduled day-night doubleheader. The night game was rained out and rescheduled for tonight.

The holiday's zaniest fare was the Red Sox-Angeles twin-nighter at Los Angeles. Chance became the AL's first 18-game winner, copping the first game 4-1 after Red Sox youngsters Morehead and Ritchie held the Angels hitless through seven innings.

Charton made his first major league start in the rubberclad nightcap and blanked Los Angeles for 6-2-3 innings. Relief ace Dick Radatz replaced the rookie in the seventh and blew a three-run lead before Los Angeles finally won 4-3 in 11. Hatt, in his first time at bat in the majors, broke it up with a bases-loaded single.

Cleveland trimmed Detroit 7-2 in the only single game scheduled.

National League leading Philadelphia split with Los Angeles, winning 5-1 and bowing 3-1; St. Louis nipped Cincinnati twice by the same 3-2 count; San Francisco swept Pittsburgh 6-4 and 9-6; Milwaukee won two from Chicago 10-9 and 8-7 and New York took a pair from Houston 7-3 and 6-4.

Daniels, who hadn't pitched a complete game since June 23 and had lost seven of his last eight decisions, checked the White Sox on five hits, snapping the Senators' seven-game tailspin, in the opener at Washington.

Stenhouse, who spent 1½ months on the disabled list earlier in the year, worked eight strong innings in the second game before giving way to Jim Hannan in the ninth when Chicago scored twice. The victory was only his second against seven defeats. He had dropped 24 of his last 29 decisions, dating back to 1962.

Chuck Hinton singled, doubled and tripled to lead Washington's first game attack and Joe Cunningham stroked three hits for the Senators in the nightcap.

Former Oriole Jim Gentile crashed two home runs against his former mates, driving in four runs and backing Meyer's six-hitter in the Athletics' second game triumph. The freshman left-hander is 2-5 on the season, having won one of the Angels.

Bunker, Baltimore's prize rookie, ran his record to 15-4 Boog Powell clubbed a 450-foot homer, his 32nd in the first game.

Roger Maris' 11th-inning double scored Tony Kubek, who had singled, with the Yankees' game-winning run. Maris had three other hits, including a two-run homer, Whitey Ford, seventh New York pitcher, got the final out in the Twins' 11th.

Bob Allison's two-run homer touched off Minnesota's four-run, two-out rally in the eighth that forced the game into overtime.

The Angels were leading 2-0 without benefit of a hit when Joe Adcock singled off Radatz in the eighth inning of the twilight game at Los Angeles. Bob Rodgers then hit an inside-the-par homer for the last two runs.

Four of seven walks issued by Morehead in 2-1-3 innings and Rodgers' sacrifice fly gave Chance a two-run margin in the third and the Angels' ace protected it with a seven-hit, 12-strikeout performance for his 13th victory in the last 14 decisions.

Kelso Not Ready to Abdicate

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Kelso, the Grand Old Man of the thoroughbreds, is not ready to abdicate his throne. And with a mere $38,738 he can become the world's leading money winning horse.

The 7-year-old gelding, four times winner of Horse of the Year honors, was hazing on the ropes until Monday after winning only two minor races in seven starts this year. Then came the $107,700 Aqueduct Stakes at Aqueduct and another clash with a young upstart named Gun Bow.

Gun Bow, a 4-year-old, had won seven stakes this year by as much as 12 lengths and was ready to take over as the boss of the runners. In one of his victories, the Brooklyn Handicap, he beat Kelso by 14 lengths.

But this was the Kelso of old that Gun Bow met in The Aqueduct. The Bohemia Stable ace let his younger rival set most of the pace, caught him with one-quarter-mile remaining and went on to a three-quarter length triumph in the good clocking of 1:48 3/5 for 1½ miles. Each carried 128 pounds.

The victory was worth $70,000 and boosted Kelso's earnings to $1,711,321. Round Table closed out his career as a 5-year-old with a bank account of $1,749,869 earned in 66 starts. Kelso has started 53 times and has won 34 races and placed second in 11 others.

The Kelso-Gun Bow duel overshadowed the remainder of the rich Labor Day program which saw 490,799 fans wager a total of $25,075,855 at 23 tracks.

The richest race of the day was $302,060 All-America Quarter Horse Futurity at Ruidoso Downs, N.M. The 400-yard race was won in 20.3 seconds by the 2-year-old filly Decketta, owned by W. W. Wilson of Blanchard, Okla.

The $113,750 Benjamin F. Lindheimer Handicap, with its winner's purse of $68,750, at Arlington Park was won by Master Dennis from Louis Wolfson's Harbor View Farm.

In track record time of 2:27 4/5 for the 1½-mile grass course, Master Dennis beat Going Abroad by one-half length.

4 Wrestlers Get Olympic Bids

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Four wrestlers, including two members of the 1960 Olympic team, won final free style matches Monday and earned berths on the 1964 U.S. Olympic team.

Winners of the competition at the Naval Academy included Gray Simons, Norfolk, Va.; Dave Auble, Ithaca, N.Y.; Bob Douglas, Bridgeport, Ohio, and Gera Conine, Tacoma, Wash.

Conine lost his bid for shutout No. 10 in the ninth, when the Red Sox scored an unearned run on two singles and Paul Schaal's error, but he lowered his major-league-leading ERA — for starters — to 1.55.

The Red Sox gave young Charton an early three-run lead but Radatz lost it in the eighth when he walked three Angels and Willie Smith unloaded a bases-clearing triple.

Smith led off the 11th against reliever Bob Heffner with a single and stole second. A sacrifice and two intentional walks loaded the bases before Hatt came through in his initial appearance since being recalled from Hawaii.

Pro Football Play Opens This Week

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Professional football followers today looked anxiously toward next weekend's National and American league openers after a climactic flurry of pre-season activity that produced the year's biggest exhibition turnout and left the surprising Minnesota Vikings with the only perfect record.

The exhibition campaign wound up Sunday at Canton, Ohio, where Baltimore drubbed Pittsburgh 48-17 in the NFL's second Hall of Fame game after seven grid greats were inducted into the shrine.

The game drew a crowd of 10,000, boosting the league's record attendance figure for pre-season play to 1,911,611 for 34 dates, including last month's All-Star classic at Chicago.

The year's top crowd—83,736—packed Cleveland's Municipal Stadium Saturday night to watch the Browns upend Green Bay 20-17 and Detroit humble the New York Giants 24-10 in an NFL bargain bill.

At Hershey, Pa., the Vikings won their fifth straight, nipping Philadelphia 21-20 in the closing seconds on a Fran Tarkenton Bill Brown touchdown pass and Fred Cox's conversion.

Elsewhere Saturday night, Washington surprised St. Louis 17-10; Chicago whipped Dallas 21-6 and Los Angeles shaded San Francisco 21-17 in NFL conditioners. The New York Jets topped Buffalo 19-17; San Diego defeated Oakland 24-10 and Denver outscored Boston 28-17 in AFL contests.

Johnny Unitas passed Pittsburgh dizzy in the Hall of Fame game, completing 13 of 24 for 242 yards and a pair of touchdowns. Rookie Tony Loric bullied over for one tally and raced 25 yards for another as the Colts finished with a 4-1 exhibition slate.

Ed Healey, Jimmy Conzelmann, Clarke Hinkle, Art Rooney, Roy Lyman, August Michalske and George Trafton were the Hall of Fame inductees.

At Cleveland, the Browns established themselves as No. 1 contenders for their first division title since 1957 behind the running of Jim Brown and the toe of veteran Lou Groza. Brown rushed for 130 yards and scored twice, sprinting 98 yards and bucking one-half yard.

Groza booted field goals of 42 and 43 yards. The victory was Cleveland's fourth in a row after an opening loss.

Tom Watkins' two-yard plunge and Wayne Walker's 16-yard field goal gave Detroit a 17-10 halftime edge in the opener and the Lions' defense, led by 300-pound Roger Brown, contained the Giants in the second half. Reserve quarterback Earl Morrall completed the scoring with a 36-yard TD bomb to Jim Gibbons.

The doubleheader, brainchild of Browns owner Arthur Modell, attracted crowds of 77,683 and 83,218 in two previous years.

Minnesota's Tarkenton hit fullback Brown with a four-yard payoff toss in the final 16 seconds and Cox kicked the decisive point. The Eagles had taken a 20-14 lead behind rookie quarterback Jack Concannon, whose passing and running—he gained 110 yards on the ground—set up a touchdown and two field goals.

The Bears held Dallas to a pair of field goals and wrapped up their victory at New Orleans in the final period on Rudy Bukich's 30-yard scoring pass to Bill Martin and Dave Whitsett's 56-yard touchdown run with a blocked field goal attempt.

After San Francisco rookie George Mira had pulled the 49ers ahead with two scoring strikes, one a 71-yarder to Dave Parks, the Rams came back to win on a 32-yard payoff pitch from rookie Bill Munson to rookie Lester Josephson with two minutes remaining.

The Rams lost quarterback Roman Gabriel in the third period when he re injured his right knee, previously hurt Aug. 15 in a game against Cleveland.

The Jets, whose only exhibition defeat was to Buffalo, overtook the Bills in the final two minutes on a Dick Wood-Don Maynard TD pass that covered 17 yards. Darryle Lamonica passed for both Buffalo touchdowns.

Tobin Rote hit Don Norton with 32- and 21-yard scoring flips in the first half that gave San Diego its margin over the Raiders. The Chargers' fourth victory in five games proved costly, with Ernie Ladd, Keith Lincoln, Lance Alworth and Earl Faison among seven casualties. Ladd has a twisted ankle, Lincoln a broken finger, Alworth a pulled leg muscle and Faison a bruised shoulder.

Jackie Lee, on lend lease from Houston, combined with Charlie Mitchell for a 76-yard pass-run for Denver's first touchdown and the Broncos went on to hand Boston its 12th straight exhibition loss. The Patriots wound up 0-5 this summer.

Baseball attendance for the Labor Day program fell below the 200,000 mark and far short of last season's total.

Monday's 18-game program attracted 182,102 fans compared to 222,880 in 1963 for a 19-game schedule.

Wonders If Indians Will Move Club

CLEVELAND (AP) — Will the financially troubled Cleveland Indians stay where they are or move to another home in 1965?

"This is the question Indians' General Manager Gabe Paul plans to discuss within a month with his board of directors.

"We're going to hold a directors' meeting soon and make a decision," Paul said Monday night amid fresh rumors that the Indians would be moved, with Seattle, Wash., reported as the most likely destination.

"We'll take inventory and decide how much money we'll need. Then we'll decide about next year."

Paul said 10 or 12 cities have approached Cleveland about the possibility of moving but quickly added:

"I want to say flatly we have made no commitments to anybody. We want to stay here."

Paul, the American League club's biggest stockholder, was asked in an interview what will determine whether or not he keeps the Tribe here. He replied:

"We want to be certain we don't go broke here. We had to dig into our pockets last year to keep alive and the same situation prevails this year. All we want is a fighting chance to stay alive financially."

Paul was part of a 19-man syndicate which shelled out $6 million for the Indians in November, 1962. He reportedly owns one-fifth of the 6,000 shares of stock.

The Indians reportedly finished $1.2 million in the red last season when they ended up in a fifth-place tie with Detroit. To date this season they reportedly have lost $800,000 and may show a larger loss than last year.

Larger Number of Firemen Leaving
CLEVELAND Ohio (AP) — H. E. Gilbert, president of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, said today that the number of workers leaving the industry because of the elimination of the use of firemen is larger than the union had expected.

Gilbert said a recent survey showed that 9,564 men had been separated from their jobs since the arbitration ruling became effective last May 7 and that the railroads had paid $22 million in severance pay.
